FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

SUNDAY, March 11, 1866. There has been an active speculative movement on the Stock Exchange during the past week, and especially in Srie and Michigan Southern, which are under cique machination. The former was at one time so scarce for deliver, that the horrowing rate was % a % per cent the ation. The former was at one time so scarce for deliver, that the borrowing rate was $\frac{1}{2}$ a $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent per day, bits $\frac{1}{2}$ a "corner" engineered in it soon gave way, and on Fre-and Saturday loans were made flat. The stock sold up to $\frac{1}{2}$ and Wednesday, but or Friday it touched $1. Michigan $\frac{1}{2}$ o-hern remained throughout firm, and advanced from $70\frac{1}{2}$ to $74$, with large transactions. The general "arket was somewhat unsettled by the break in Erie, and the decline of gold; but notwithstanding these adverse circumstances and large sales by the bears, prices were well maintained, and the speculation for a rise gradually gained strength. At half-past fire o'clock on Saturday the following quotations were current:—New on Saturday the following quotations were current:—New York Central 91% a 92, Eric 82% a %, Hudson River 103% a 104, Reading 97% a 98, Michigan Central 121% a %, Michigan Southern 73% a 74, Illinois Central 115 bid, develand and Pittsburg 75% a %, Rock Island 107% a 34, Northwestern 2534, proferred 5234 a 34. Fort Wayne 8034 a 90, Ohio and Mississippi certificates 2434 a 34. Caston 4234 a 44. Cumberland 4234, Mariposa 1135 a 12, Ouicksilver 40% a %.

Government securities were firm and a shade more active than usual of late. The belief that the Secretary of the Treasury will accomplish the funding of seven-thirty out resorting to the sale of bonds, and by erely exchanging the former for the latter without any isturbance of the market, inspires confidence and con-butes materially to its strength. The Comptroller of tion to the fact that by the act of June 30, 1864, United States notes can be converted into compound interest notes, and by the act of March 3, 1865, certificates of inender notes and seven-thirty notes can be converted into six per cent bonds. There is, consequently, says the Comptroller, full power already conferred by acts of Congress to fund the floating debt without any further legislation on the subject, and no necessity for making a loan for any purpose whatever, as all the funding can be done by exchanging one security for another in the manner referred to, so avoiding those de-rangements of the money market which would otherwise occur, and the consequent depression of securities on the Stock Exchange. It is supposed in certain quar-ters that some considerable sales of the third issue of five-twenties which were made during the week represented recent conversions of seven-thirty notes on terms privately agreed upon by the Secretary of the Treasury

There was increased activity in the gold room, but the course of speculation was almost entirely on the "bear" side, and the market weakened from 134% on Monday to on Saturday. Late in the afternoon, however, it recovered to 1321/2 a 1/4. The Treasury, by having over supplied the street with coin, made it to the interest of the brokers to speculate for a fail, and they have not failed to profit by the opportunity. The government has not been a seller under 13734 and is not likely to be for a long time to come, so that the floating supply of coin will grow gradually smaller by the drain into the Sub-Treasury for customs duties. The market thus relieved from the artificial pressure under which it has latterly labored, the premium will advance again, and it is desirable for the interests of the country that it should. Confidence in values generally is more or less shaken by a sudden disturbance of the value of the paper dollar, and that stag-mation which is the leading feature at present of every branch of trade is to a great extent the result of the in branch of trade is to a great extent the result of the in-discreet saies of gold by the government. These sales have a temporary effect in depressing the premium, but they can be of no assistance to us in paving the way to a return to specie payments. Neither are they likely to have any permanent effect in making the gold and paper dollar approximate more closely in value. In the event of the floating supply of coin being inadequate to meet the demand for custo duties it would be desirable that the government should be a seller for that purpose publicly, but not privately. The policy of flooding the market with coin enough to over in the same manner, is directly promotive of those fluctuations which tend to paralyze enterprise and industry, and convert legitimate business into a hazardous speculation. The range of the market on each day of

The rumor that the Treasury will anticipate the paymer of the May interest on five-twenties is as yet withou foundation in fact. Foreign exchange was dull, but moderately firm under the influence of a limited supply of cotton and local com-mercial bilis and the large import movement going for-ward. The steady decline in the receipts of cotton at thern ports is interpreted as favorable to reduced exports and a corresponding scarcity of exchange. The cipts at New Orleans for the week ending March 2 were only 12,500 bales. The total receipts at all the ports since the close of the war are estimated at 1,817,900 bales. The exports from this port for the week ending bales, while the receipts for the week ending on the 5th were only 10,904 bales. The stock at New Orleans or the 7th was about 156,000 bales, at Mobile on the 3d, 76,475 bales, at Savannah on the 3d, 13,565 bales, at Galveston on February 24 23,970 bales. The stock at Liverpool on Pebruary 24, was 418,650 bales, of which 214,650 were American. The aggregate stock was about 160,000 bales larger at the same time last year, but it included only 50,970 bales of American. The prospects of the next crop are still some what dublous, although less so than a few months since. Estimates of the probable number of bales, as a matter of course, differ widely according to the opinions of those making them. Critical authorities, whose original estimate was a million or so of bales, are now sanguine that the crop will reach a million and a half or two millions of bales. In some districts it is represented that not more than one-fourth of the former area will be put under cultivation, and in others from a third to a half; but in Tennessee and Texas it is expected that the area placed under culti vation will at least equal that of any former season. There is a lack of harmony reported between employers and laborers in some lastances; and intending planters have, it is said, made sacrifices to escape from their plantations rather than struggle with the difficulties of reorganization. Political reconstruction must necessarily precede the perfect reorganization of the labor system of the South, the full development of its agricultural resources and the restoration of Southern credit; and the sooner that great work is perfected the sooner the cotion trade will resume its colossal proportious, and the wealth of the South be made tributary to the resumption of specie payments: Bankers' bills on England at sixty days slowed at 108 14 a 14.

The money market worked gradually earler during the week, and on Saturday loans were in many cases made at six per cent on mixed collaterals, although the regular rate remains at seven. The demand from the Stock Ex change has increased in proportion to the volume of business, but the supply offered at call has been than adequate to meet it, and unemployed bal-ances have been lent over in some cases at five per cent. In the discount line the supply of first class ommercial paper has been limited, and rated at 7 a 8 per cont; but inferior grades have been growing less in favor, owing to the declining markets for dry goods and all descriptions of merchandise, as well as most kinds of produce, and the distrust on the part of lenders thereby induced. The recent sales by auction of foreign dry porters. There is a strong pressure to sell among the job bers, and the more these and the importers show a lack of sonfidence in the market sustaining itself, the more the stocks of both foreign and domestic munufactures are accumulating rapidly. time, and the aggregate supply will, it is considered, be in excess of any probable demand for a considerable time With the gradual recovery of the gold premium, however, the dry goods, alike with all other kets, will be likely to assume a firmer tone, and then those who are now deferring their purchases will be those who are now deferring their purchases and fager to buy at higher prices. Continued and prolonged Sage to buy at higher prices. Continued and protonged base in the money market may be looked for, because the government cannot afford to have it otherwise to long as it has $118,000,000 of temporary deposits table to be called for within ten days, and in the case of isble to be called for within ten days, and in the case of Wilmington, N. C., to Jamara, lember, $12 gold, per twenty are millions of Clearing House certificates on 1,000 feet, and back, codes and wood, $5 per ton, curdemand. There is some talk of reducing the interest on the six per cent deposits to five per cent, and we recom-mend that this should be done immediately, and also that further deposits be refused so long as the govern-ment has no use for the money.

The act of Missouri, recently passed to provide for the consolidation of the railroad State debt, shows that the latter will amount in all to $30,199,050 on the 1st of January, 1868; the details of which are thus given:-

The consolidated bonds, issued in exchange for the old, with the accrued interest added, will bear interest for four years from January, 1868, at the rate of three per cent only, and for the next four years at four, and the succeeding four years at five. From 1880 to 1886 the rate will be six per cent; for four years after that time seven per cent, and the four years again succeeding eight per cent; after which nine per cent for four years, till the period of their maturity. Alleged Wife Murder by Shooting.

Mrs. Joanna O'Brien, the woman who was shot in the head by a pistol in the hands of her husband, John O'Brien, at their late residence, No. 31 Roosevelt street, on the morning of the 5th inst., as previously reported, ied in Believue Hospital late on Satarday afternoon. After death, permission being given, the remains were moved to the residence of Ellen Riley, a cousin of de-

After death, permission being given, the remains were removed to the residence of Ellen Riley, a cousin of deceased, living at No. 127 Madison street, where Coroner Gover yesterday held an inquest.

The testimony of Ellen Riley was taken, and went to show that the prisoner and deceased, who lived very unhappily together in consequence of his intemperate habits and frequent threats to take her life, arrived in this city about three years ago. On Monday last (6th inst.) O'Brien roturned from his work, and, during a quarrel which ensued with his wire, it is alleged he drew a pistel and shot her in the head, inflicting a fatal wound. She ran from the house and took refuge with the witness, (Ellen Eley.) As she fled O'Brien followed in pursuit, and was arrosted by officer Vock, of the Seventh precinct, after which the wounded woman was conveyed to the hospital and died as stated.

Dr. John Beach, Deputy Coroner, made a post mortem examination on the body, and found, a wound of the head, about an inch and a half in depth, which had been removed by the attending surgeon before death. In the doctor's opinion d ath was caused by inflammation of the brain, resulting from the aclove described wound.

The case being submitted to the jury, they rendered a verdict as follows:—"That Joanna O'Brien, the deceased, came to her death by a pistol shot wound at the hands of her heaband, John O'Brien, on the 5th day of March, 1866."

O'Brien is thirty-three years of age and a native of 1886."

O'Brien is thirty-three years of age and a native of Ireland. By occupation he was a private wat hman. On his examination the accused says "the killing of his wife was accidental." Coroner Gover committed O'Brien to the Tombs for trial.

The Roxbury Tragedy.

(From the Boston Traveller, March 10).

We learn that the adopted parents of Dodge, allus "Scratch Gravel," feel satisfied that he is the murderer of the two Joyce children. While he resided at Hamilton, in this "State, he was always reparted as a vicious boy, and was in the habit of carrying a rovolver and take knife, and when quite young rather inclined to be fast. Yesterday ink and paper were furnished him to prepare a statement of his whoreabouts during the months of May and Jene last, but he refused to do so and they were taken away from him. Provious to this, however, he wrote a note to his adopted parents, requesting them to call and see him. From the appearance of the paper he at first concluded to write out a statement, but subsequently changed his mind. At the top of the sheet he had written, "At Hen Pick, N.Y., Ist of May," and then stopped.

This morning he remarked, pointing to his food, that cence.

He was asked why he had not prepared the statement, and repited that he could not received exactly where he was, but positively asserted that he was not in Massachu setts in May or June, and only arrived on the day that he committed the robbery in Gardiner, viz, the 5th of August. Provious to that, and especially on the 1st of June, he asserts he was in the woods of New York. Dodge also told the warden that he had been foully dealt with a few days since, that he had been foully dealt with a few days since, that he had been freezed up and inspected with other prismers, and that clothes had been placed upon him that he had never been in the habit of wearing. When asked in what particular, he replied that he was not accustomed to wear a flannel undershirt. He positively affirmed this, and when Mr. Haynes told him that he had found two such shirts in his valles he admitted that he did wear them, but that those placed on him were thicker, and would deceive a person as to his size.

[The occasion above alloded to was when the Roxbury blacksmuth visited the prison for the purpose of identifying the man he drank with near the scene of the murder.]

Mr. Haynes asked him at a previous interview who

Mr. Haynes asked him at a previous interview who poid for the drink at Tait's tavern, he or the black-smith. At this question he seemed greatly agitated, for he had formerly dealed all knowledge of Paft's, and said that he was not in the habit of drinking, and had not visited Roxbury. He persisted in his denial, and the warden then asked him if he dd not have some conversation with the black-smith at the time about enlisting in the navy, and, thrown off his guard, immediately replied that possibly he might have had such a conversation, but could not state positively. Soon after he appeared to realize that he had made an unfortunate admission, and seemed unusually low-spirited. The black-smith, when he visited the present, recollected that they did converse about Dodge having been in the army and navy, and gave the principal part of it, which is corroborated by other facin in peacession of Mr. Haynes. He also described the peculiar manners of the man he talked with; they exactly correspond with shows of the presoner.

While in the Fireholtz jail Dolge, in speaking about his having done a 'pool' at Roxbury, alluded to nis naving visited Taft's, and told some of the presencers that Taft did not keep the piace, but that a Dutchman dd. He also told them how many times he stabbed the chidren in this back, and the number is the same as those inflicted.

The reason he gives to the warden for his inability to account for his whereabouts on the lat of June is that inflicted.

The reason he gives to the warden for his inability to account for his whereabouts on the lat o. June is that he was drunk most of the time, in the woods of New York, but the precise places he visited he cannot recolling

York, but the precise places he visited he cannot recollect.

This morning he made another important admission. He told hr. Haynes that he could not tell him where he was in Roubury, but that if they would let him out he would go with the officers and point out the places.

The warden this morning reserved letters from several parties in West Rockbury stating that on the day the murders were committed their daughters were followed by a man in that vicinity, and the young ladies are confident that they can identify the person again. They are to visit the prison for that purpose.

The blacksmith has not yet been able to fix the day on which he was in company with Dodge, but is certain it was between the 1st and 17th of June.

At the interview this morning Dodge told Mr. Haynes that the blacksmith could not identify a certain article that he had on when he was said to have been in he company at Roxbury, and upon inquiring as to who had made any statement that he could, lodge replied that the deputy warden had so informed him. This is a falsehood, for the latter has held no conversation with him in regard to it.

The warden states that no one can talk with Dodge afteen minutes without feeling satisfied that he is the murderry of the Joyce children. His answers to quositions are very evasive, he exhibits considerable excitement and does not wish to talk about the matter.

He stat feels confident that Dodge will finally make a confedence in head of the critisers of word Vicinity affects.

there is a God, the guilty man will be brought to justice and clear me."

Soon after the murders were committed Alderman Clapp, in behalf of the citzens of ward Eieven, offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the murderer; $1,000 by the city of Boston; $1,000 by selections of the town of West Roxbury, and $1,000 by Mr. Thomas Mouley, on behalf of the citizens of West Roxbury.

When the examination of the bodies was made, br. Allen gave it as his opinion that the wounds must have been infleted with a dirk having a biade of eight or nine inches, and this answers the description of the one found on the person of Dedge.

Yesterday morning, at an early hour, Mr. James T. Saffen, residing at No. 100 West Forty-third street, in Same, resuing at No. 100 west renty-third street, in passing the corner of Prince street and Broadway was accosted in a very familiar manner by Daniel Creamer, ahas the "Doctor," who, although a stranger, expressed the greatest friendship for him. Saffen thought strange of the circumstance, but nevertheless stepped aside with Creamer, when the latter passed him against the side wail of the building in Prince street, where he commenced feeling about his breast and shoulders. In a few moments afterwards Mr. Saffen pulled away from Creamer, the latter of whom instantly passed up Broadway towards Rouston street. At that time Saffen due vered that his diamond breastpin, valued at two hundred and thirty dollars, had been picked from his shirt bosom. He then followed in pursuit of Creamer, and, meeting officer Kelly, of the Eighth precinct, informed him of the theft, when the latter gave chase for Creamer, and arrested him in Broadway. The prisoner was positively identified, but on scarching him the missing property could not be found. Justice Dodge, before when the accused was arraigned, committed him for trial without bail. Creamer, who lives at 119 Mercer street, denies his guilt in the most positive terms.

CONFLICT WITH THIEVES—DESPERATE ASSAULT AND ROBERRY. passing the corner of Prince street and Broadway was curred on the corner of Sixth avenue and Twenty eighth street about three o'clock yesterday morning, James Coyne, Iving at No. 320 Eighth avenue, being the victim. He was on his way home, when two men accosted and commenced a brutal assault on him. Mr. Coyne received a violent first blow in the face, which levelled him with the pavement. Before he could recover himself Coyne was kicked and beates terribly, and while at the merey of the highwaymen they foreibly rifled his pockets of his wallet, containing a few small bills and other articles of trifling value. The victim, measing to regain his feet, screamed for help, when he was again knocked down by the robbers, who ran away in different directions. Officer Cookingham, of the Twenty-ninth precinct, who had heard the alarm, pursued one of the fugitives, but officer Baker, of the same precinct, intercepted and arrested him. The prisoner gave his name as Patrick Hyan, and was positively identified by Coyne as one of the men we had assaulted and robbed him. Justice Dodge committed Ryan for trial. He is twenty-night-years of age, was born in Ireland, and says he lives at No. 288 Eighth avenue. The prisoner's accomplice was not arrested.

The following from the Newcastle (English) Chronicle, of February 24, shows that Hamili is in communication with themsers, ex-champion of England, and old Harry Clasper, and that the Tyne will undoubtedly be the river on which the race will take place, as the American has been awarded the choice of water:—

Last Monday we published part of a letter received from the American champion to R. Chambers, of St. Anthony's, wishing to gain certain information concerning the build of the boats, the course of the river Tyne for a five mile race, and other questions, with the intention of making the Tyne the scene of action. On Thursday last Chambers received another letter from Hamil, the principal part being of a strictly private nature, with the exception that he wishes to know the quickest mie that has ever been rowed on the Tyne; and remarks as the river near Pittsburg is frozen, he cannot at present take any water training; but if nothing occurs to mar his present intentions he will leave for England on the last of May, and make the banks of the coaly from his first English domicile. It appears at Pittsburg there are several natives of Walker residing, who have made acquaintance with Hamill, and no doubt he will have heard through them the fair treatment strangers always receive from Tynesiders, and as he must have heard also, through the press, that his opponents domique overlooked the much coveted course claimed by the cockneys, he will be natorally of opinion that to enjoy an equal chance his only plan will be to that to only an equal chance his only plan will be to take Harry from his native river to some other water, and, as it is pretty clear that there is scarcely eny other sheutral course offering so many advantages as the Tvne, it now some mind to "go on"—that the Tyne will be in the same mind to "go on"—that the Tyne will be the scene of the coming conflict.
